

Christian quenches Apollyon's fiery darts with his shield of faith in the Valley of Humiliation and continues undaunted for three paces

The gardener in the orchards and vineyards of the land of Beulah gives the pilgrims corn, wine and other dainties that speed them along for six steps

Christiana and her four sons are assaulted by the Ill-favored ones, because they do not request a guide on their journey to the Celestial City. Reliever saves them, but they fall back six paces

Christiana watches while Great-heart kills Giant Slay-good and severs his head so he can display it as a warning to others who would harm pilgrims on the King's highway. Thus Mr. Feeble-minded, from the town Uncertain, was saved, but the pilgrim's were delayed for one turn.

Christiana is detained by the daughter of Timorous, who tries to dissuade her from going on pilgrimage, and goes back two paces

Christiana and Honesty are entertained by Great-heart's tale of Mr. Fearing from the town of Stupidity, and quicken their pace by six steps

Timorous and Mistust run back toward Destruction and try to dissuade Christian from his pilgrimage because of the lions on the path ahead. At first Christian also doesn't notice that the lions ahead were chained, and steps back two paces in alarm

Christiana is stopped in her path by the sight of pilgrim Mr. Not-right, who escaped Giant Slay-good but was struck down by a thunderbolt, and loses a turn.

Pilgrim Christian smarts from the whip of the Shining One who punished him for getting caught in the Flatterer's net, and loses a turn.

It isn't my fault. But Pilgrim Christian has to jump back three steps so Giant Maul won't get him.

Pilgrim Christian helped Hopeful stay awake in their passage through the Enchanted Ground, thus keeping them safe from the witch Madam Bubble, so Hopeful speeds Christian along now for eight paces.

Mr. Interpreter gives Christiana a piece of pomegranate, a piece of honeycomb and a bottle of spirits to help her along for five paces

Virgin Prudence plays a song on House Beautiful's Virginals, inspiring the pilgrims along for three steps

The virgins in House Beautiful offer Pilgrim Christiana a heave-shoulder and a wave-breast of David, giving her the strength for seven steps more

The unpleasant Giant Grim makes Christiana step back four paces. A bad chap is the Giant Grim

Great-heart gives Christiana some parched corn to have with her wine on the way to the Celestial City, enabling her to move forward three steps

Christiana and her children marvel at the wonders of Eve's apple and the anchor in House Beautiful, and stay put for one turn, dazzled by these novelties

Pilgrim Christian forgets to read his "Note of Direction for the Way" from the shepherds and takes the By-path-way to Doubting Castle by mistake

Oh my! Christian Pilgrim's staff catches in the paving of Dead-Man's-Lane and you lose one turn

Pilgrim Christian is caught in Giant Despair's net, and you lose your turn. I'm sorry, but it couldn't be helped

Christian and Hopeful erect an engraved pillar to warn other pilgrims to forgo the easy path over the turnstile that leads to Doubting Castle, and stick to the steep, narrow path ahead to salvation. Lose a turn

Pilgrim Christian stumbles by the pit where Vain-glorious falls to his death, and rolls back two paces. It is too bad: Isn't it?

Christian remembers the key of Promise in his bosom, and unlocks all the prison doors in Doubting Castle, allowing him to flee ahead for ten paces

Ignorance tries to lure your pilgrim to Little-crooked-lane in the County of Conceit, from where the would-be pilgrims think there is a short-cut to the Celestial City. Lose one turn

Christian Pilgrim loses his parchment scroll that will admit him to Mt. Zion and has to go back ten steps to find it in the arbor where he rested near Difficulty Hill

Your pilgrim neglects to use the eyeshades provided by the shepherds when gazing at the dazzling Celestial City from the Delectable Mountains, and is temporarily blinded for one turn

Your pilgrim decides to walk alone, like Ignorance, and falls back two paces.

Christiana's friend Mercy is tempted to listen to Mr. Brisk, just as Temporary listened to his neighbour Saveself, quitting his pilgrimage from their town Graceless. Lose one turn

Obstinate and Ptible try to persuade Pilgrim Christian to turn back to his native City of Destruction, but he forges on for two paces

The hand with leaves from the tree of life appears and instantly cures wounds inflicted on Christian by the winged demon Apollyon, allowing Christian to go ahead three more steps

Selah! Your pilgrim doesn't have the faith to cross the Black River of death, and waits around for the ferryman Vain-hope, losing a turn

Your Pilgrim dodges Captain Beelzebub's arrows shot from the castle tower, on the way to the wicket gate, and advances three steps

Your pilgrim stops to listen to Mr. Money-love's version of religious behaviour to improve finances. Lose a turn.

You let Demas, son of Judas, interest you in the rarity of the silver mine at Lucre Hill, where miners seek riches and fall to their deaths. Lose one turn

Your pilgrim barely escapes attacks by uncircumcised Philistines, and loses a turn

Your pilgrim's birthright is almost sold for a mess of pottage, like Esau's. Lose a turn

Your pilgrim tries to sweep the dust in the Interpreter's house instead of sprinkling water on it and collapses in a coughing fit until the next turn

Pilgrim Christian tries to convince Formalist and Hypocrisy, from the land of Vain-glory, that they can't climb over the Wall of Salvation instead of going through the wicket gate, and does not advance this turn

Christiana's son Matthew eats green plums from Beelzebub's orchard. The pilgrims are delayed for one turn while he is cured with Mr. Skill's pills, of Ex carne et sanguine Christi, made into pill form with a promise of two and some salt, to be taken with half a quarter of a pint of tears of repentance.

Your pilgrim stops to read the note "Wanton Professor and damnable apostate" stuck on Turn-away from Apostasy's back, thus falling back two spaces

Pilgrim Christian tries unsuccessfully to rouse Simple, Sloth and Presumption from their slumber, and does not go forward any steps this turn

Worldly wise-man from Morality deceives your pilgrim into believing that all burdens may be unloaded at Mt. Sinai. Lose a turn

Christian tries to avoid listening to Talkative from Prating-row prattle on about useless things and falls back two spaces

Your pilgrim debates taking the benign-looking path Danger, into a great wood, or Destruction, into the Dark Mountains, instead of the steep, straight path ahead. Lose a turn.

Christiana forgets her bottle of wine in the same arbor where Christian loses his certificate and must go back four steps to find it

Your pilgrim clammers too high on Error Hill, where followers of Hymeneus and Philetus plummeted, but luckily only falls back three steps

Christian over-runs Faithful, and smiles vain-gloriously, causing him to stumble and fall. He can't rise until faithful helps him up, thereby losing one turn

Go to Vanity-fair, or put your fingers in your ears, look upwards signifying your trade is in heaven, and cry, "Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity."

Your pilgrim narrowly avoids falling into a dangerous quag in the Valley of the Shadow of Death, and doesn't move until next turn